

THE NEWS IN MACON.

RECORD OF YESTERDAY'S EVENTS IN THE CENTRAL CITY.

Death of Mrs. M. E. Talbot in Eatonton—A Pleasant Meeting of the Mason Atheneum—A Church Picnic—Fathers' Picnic—A Refreshment Stand—Smoking Out the Gold, Etc.

MACON, November 13.—[Special.]—This morning the intelligence of the death of Mrs. M. E. Talbot, of Eatonton, reached the city. Mrs. Talbot was a sister of Mrs. C. M. Wiley, of Macon, and was a most estimable lady. She leaves five little children, a boy and four girls. Mrs. Wiley is now in Eatonton and Colonel Wiley went over tonight to attend the funeral which will take place tomorrow.

The Mason Atheneum.

MACON, November 13.—[Special.]—Tonight in the parlors of the Wesleyan Female college the Atheneum had a pleasant and interesting meeting. There was a full attendance of members and invited friends, and the subject for discussion was "Our Southern Home." The musical and literary programme was rendered, and the occasion was in every way delightful.

Painting the Courthouse Bed.

MACON, November 13.—[Special.]—Workmen are now engaged in repainting the metal cornicing and woodwork of the courthouse building. The color of paint which is being used on the outside is very red.

Smoking Out the Gold.

MACON, November 13.—[Special.]—Manager Henry Horn is having made at the academy of music an improvement which Macon audience will appreciate during the coming winter. The academy of music is already one of the warmest and most comfortable buildings of the kind in the south, but in order that it may be more comfortable still, the outer walls have been constructed just inside of the street entrance. This will, during severe weather, prevent the passage of cold air into the main auditorium; yet at the same time, the doors may be opened and closed admitting persons to the theater. By means of an improved heating system, the temperature can be kept warm and comfortable. Additional heaters were also placed in the building today.

Cooler Weather.

MACON, November 13.—[Special.]—The weather has been turning gradually cooler since day light this morning. A light rain has been falling to-day and will continue throughout the day, with a prospect of more. It has been unusually warm for several days past and a little cooler weather would not only be acceptable, but would have a tendency to make everyone feel better.

A Church Festival.

MACON, November 13.—[Special.]—Tonight the ladies of the First Street Methodist church are holding a festival in the basement of the church. It is largely attended, and the proceeds are to be devoted to various benevolent objects.

The Myra Goodwin Comedy Company.

MACON, November 13.—[Special.]—Miss Myra Goodwin and her company presented the attractive and popular comedy, "The Man in the Mirror," last night. There was a good audience present, and the play, which is enteraining in the extreme, was well presented. Miss Goodwin as "Suzie" acted well her part, and was complimented with liberal applause throughout the play.

Recorder's Court.

MACON, November 13.—[Special.]—In the absence of Recorder Patterson, Mayor S. B. Price presided in the recorder's court this morning, and the first case tried was that of Sarah Bates, charged with fighting. Fined $25.

John Smith, a negro from the country, came to town yesterday to sue the circus, but got drunk and was unable to make his appearance, so he carried him to the stationhouse. Smith made considerable resistance and made a "scene" on the streets, shouting, "I want my money back." The suit was paid by his employer, Mr. Jameson Wood.

Lee Maddox and Walter Perkins had a fight at the circus last night. They were each fined $5.

Bridal Mantua.

MACON, November 13.—[Special.]—Editor John H. Morris of the Ferry Home Journal, is spending today in the city.

Colonel W. E. Collier, of Fort Valley, is in the city today, and is staying at the Lanier house. For the past few weeks Colonel Collier has been suffering from an ailment which makes it difficult for him to get about. He has the sympathy of numerous friends, who are in their power to do all they can to relieve him.

Mr. C. D. Cannon, of Perry, is spending today in Macdonald.

W. E. Smith and wife, of Albany, passed through the city yesterday.

Mrs. Lizzie Shultz, of Macon, is spending a few days in the city, the guest of Mrs. George C. Brown.

The regular weekly meeting of the Sunday school teachers of the First Methodist church held tonight.

On the 11th inst., November 13, Mr. Jones, E. W. Smith, and Miss Catherine Halliburton, of Savannah, were united in marriage. Last Wednesday was the fifteenth anniversary of that interview.

Mr. Weil is one of the oldest and most highly esteemed citizens of Macon, and was for thirty years a member of the Masonic Lodge No. 10, of Georgia.

Mr. E. P. Berry, ordinary of Jones county, has sent a telegram to the editor of the Constitution, asking him to publish a notice that the Memphis are prevalent in the hill near the Waterworks.

Mr. W. F. Greer, formerly of the firm of Greer & Lake, which for many years did business in this city, has been appointed postmaster at Ure's Corner, in the city, where he is otherwise unoccupied.

Today the county poor, 150 in number, were given a new home by the city.

Some of the merchants complain that the country people who came to the city yesterday refused to trade because there was no circus parade.

ELEMENTS OF MANLINESS.

An Entertainment in Gasterville by the Parsonage Aid Society.

CANTERVILLE, Ga., November 13.—[Special.]—The entertainment given by the Ladies' Parsonage Aid society of the Methodist church last evening was a complete success. Rev. Sam Jones lectured on "Man and the Elements of Manliness" at the opera house to a large audience. His lecture was in his very best style, and captivated his hearers.

Mr. J. C. Palmer, of the same society, gave a special address on the southern manhood of this new era in the south. His remarks were very well received, and the audience gave him a standing ovation.

The theater supper at the St. James hotel, after the entertainment, was liberally patronized and the ladies realized a very handsome amount as the result of their efforts.

Sudden Death of a Colored Man.

SOCIAL CIRCLE, Ga., November 13.—[Special.]—Edmund Dacus, colored, died very suddenly yesterday morning. Deceased was an orderly, quiet freedman. A carpenter by trade. He was apparently well the night before and attended a meeting near by. He arose early in the morning, a profuse sweat, and at the door and sat down, complained of blindness, fell and had to be carried in the house and died about 10 o'clock a. m.

News from Elberton.

ELBERTON, Ga., November 13.—[Special.]—Zion Williamson and John Tate, two colored boys, were sent to Hill's Chancery from here yesterday under a writ of habeas corpus.

Moses S. L. Curtis and Henry Thomas are operating a new livery stable here and supplying it with fine horses and vehicles. They are both experienced liverymen and will doubtless make it a success.

The hook and ladder company of this place have built them a nice hall and house for their trucks.

It Was an Accident.

SAVANNAH, Ga., November 13.—[Special.]—Elford, a colored boy fourteen years of age, died at his home last night. On the 1st ult. he was struck on the head with a brick, in play, by a companion, Grant Floyd. He had been confined to bed since, and eventually died. At the coroner's inquest today, the verdict rendered was death from blows inflicted with a brick thrown by Grant Floyd. We consider it an accident.

The Champion Hunter.

DOUGLASSVILLE, Ga., November 13.—[Special.]—One day last week, Mr. Luke Skinner, the champion hunter of this county, killed three wild turkeys, within 4 miles and half of this place.

COLUMBUS CHRONICLES.

Railroad Officials in Town—A Fashionable German—Criminal Notes.

COLUMBUS, Ga., November 13.—[Special.]—Captain Eason, Colonel Rogers, and Captain Jones of the Central railroad, passed through the city today enroute to Macon, from Montgomery.

A little son of Mr. J. C. Crowder, who lives near Simpson, was run over by a wagon yesterday evening and was severely hurt.

A very fashionable and largely attended general was given by the L'Allegro german club, at the Perry house, tonight. There were several visiting young ladies present. The general was led by Mr. Hart Joseph.

There will be several slight changes in the schedules of the railroads running into this city next Sunday. The Columbus and Rome passenger train will leave here twenty-seven minutes earlier than at present, and the passenger train from Macon will arrive thirty-two minutes earlier and leave for Opelika fifty minutes earlier. The train for Atlanta will leave at 1:30 a.m. instead of 7:30.

Mr. J. D. Crawford and Miss E. L. McDaniel were married near Catonsville, Harris county, yesterday evening.

The majority for whisky in Harris county was 84% instead of 44% at first published.

The People's line of boats has received rates on cotton from this city to all western points. The Merchants and Planters' line propose to enter the fight. It cannot be learned what the Central line will do. The fight will doubtless become lively indeed if it is given up.

The receipts of cotton at this city up to date are $6,885 in excess of the same date last year.

Nancy Hart.

From the Savannah, Ga., News.

The general reader may or may not know that Hart county, in northeast Georgia, was named for a woman—one ignorant of letters and the nice vices of life; plain, coarse, and devoid of speech who was a widow, she and a son, Hiram, were the parents of six of the so-called friends. She figured in the days of the revolutionary war in Elbert county, and did good service for her country.

She was fearless, bold and aggressive, and had a decided contempt for men. When a burglar had broken into her house, she called him a white man, who killed George Powell, also white, in Girard, about a year ago, is on trial at Seal for murder. It is thought the case will go against him.

The death struggle.

He grappled with his assailant and called to his wife to strike a light and get his pistol. Then the burglar struggled desperately to escape, and in the darkness, cut his way through the doorway into Captain Waring's room. Captain Waring tried to confine him in the closet, but could not get the door fastened, and he burst out, but Captain Waring, determined to capture him, grasped him again, hoping to hold him till Mrs. Waring could make a light and get a weapon.

In the darkness, confused and terrified, the lady could do neither, and the burglar struggled drew a pistol and fired twice the second shot striking Captain Waring in the right breast. The burglar had a pistol, too, and he fired it through a window and fled. In the struggle, Captain Waring found his antagonist was a negro, by feeling his woolly head. By the flash of the second pistol shot, he recognized the features of Dennis Johnson.

The noise of the struggle, mirrors and chinaware and lamps hung down and broken, the pistol shot, Captain Waring's calls for help, and his wife's long loud blasts of a horn, roused the household and the female seminary adjoining, and for the first time in two years the inmates of the house came together in one.

INDUSTRIAL.

One of the Edwards were in Dennis's house to see him.

Nancy Hart used some very strong words at the act, but in a little time seemed to have calmed down and began to talk again.

She was a good audience present, and the play, which is enteraining in the extreme, was well presented. Miss Goodwin as "Suzie" acted well her part, and was complimented with liberal applause throughout the play.

The Differences Show.

From the Savannah, Ga., News.

The New York Graphic says: Captain George W. Cheever, a Georgia editor, some time ago shot and killed his man in cold blood, and yesterday died in jail at Atlanta of insanity and grief. So much sympathy was felt for him throughout Georgia that apparently his victim had been already buried. The Graphic is mistaken.

There was no feeling of sympathy for the negro, and it is thought that Cheever, the criminal, but there were many who thought that Cheever, the lunatic, and Cheever, the dead, had been interred in the same grave.

Cheever, a man of wealth and education, had been compelled reluctantly, and at the next regular meeting of the Franklin, Ga., Mirror.

The regular meeting of Houston cultural society was held on Wednesday last. Vice President, Dr. E. C. Palmer, and Mrs. Palmer, were present.

LETTER TO A FAMOUS MERCHANT.

MORNING STAR, GA., November 12, '85.—Dear Friend: I received your letter this morning, and very well posted on what is done in the trade about your prohibition. I read the two papers, you know, and am occasionally there myself. I know there must be considerable commotion. I feel confident that the dry side will win; and right here I will venture the remark that in my opinion, it will prove a blessing to us all. If I lived in Fulton

County, I should be for it.

It has done our own little Clayton County, as far as I know, I know I am greatly pleased, but I am not so much for it. I am not so much for it. I am not so much for it.

I am not so much for it. I am not so much for it.

I am not so much for it. I am not so much for it.

I am not so much for it. I am not so much for it.

I am not so much for it. I am not so much for it.

I am not so much for it. I am not so much for it.

I am not so much for it. I am not so much for it.

I am not so much for it. I am not so much for it.

I am not so much for it. I am not so much for it.

I am not so much for it. I am not so much for it.

INDICATIONS for the South Atlantic States at 1 a. m.: Fair and colder weather followed in the interior by a slight rise in temperature; winds becoming variable and preceded by northerly winds on North Carolina coast. East Gulf states: Warmer and fair weather, variable winds.

The colored church members of Douglas county are exceedingly jealous of their membership rolls. They have just tried and expelled a dead man for offenses committed while in office.

The river and harbor congress, called to meet in Savannah on the 25th, gives promise of being successful in business as well as imposing in numbers. Delegates are being appointed from all the south Atlantic towns, and generally from the interior.

LORD HIGH EXECUTIONER STEVENSON officially reports that there are 61,252 postoffices in the country, and that 11,203 appointments have been made during the year. He has only fairly begun therefore to wield his bright new axe. He has only forty thousand to decapitate. Turn the rascals out.

The fire in Galveston assumed proportions which place it among the great conflagrations of the country. One hundred acres of the center of the city has been cleared of every combustible thing. Galveston, however, does not intend to appeal to the outside world for help, but will carry her own burdens.

Some of the newspapers want Mr. Vilas to suspend the special delivery system on the ground that it doesn't pay. If this is an argument it applies to the whole postal service. But the postal service is for the benefit of the people and there is no reason why it should pay. All such arguments betray an astonishing amount of ignorance as to the aim and purpose of a government for and by the people.

The Washington correspondent of the New York Commercial-Advertiser announces that the prospects of repealing the Bland act are brighter now than they were some time ago. Why should the Commercial-Advertiser feel the gold-bugs and the Wall street speculators with any such nonsense as this? If its editor knows anything, he knows that there is not the slightest prospect of the repeal of the Bland act. The silver dollar is here to stay, and Wall street can't decapitate it.

The Mormons are going to prison with even regularity. An Idaho judge has just sentenced a batch of them, and in Utah and elsewhere the Edmunds law is enforced with severity and precision. And yet men were told last fall that democratic success meant Mormon rule in the territories without limits or end. Those who voted under such a delusion should step forward and confess, and ask admission again to the party that intends to put an end to polygamy and all organized resistance to the laws.

A PRIVATE DISPATCH was received yesterday in the city by Colonel D. N. Speer announcing the death of Barlow, Ga., of Colonel Wender P. Johnson. He was son of the Hon. Herschel V. Johnson, and graduated at the University of Georgia with honor, and was the valedictorian of the class of law students at the Lumpkin law school in 1859. He held a responsible position during the war in the army of northern Virginia, and was a brilliant man whose death in the prime of life will be regretted by all who knew him.

AFTER all the explanations of the defeat that has befallen the republicans of New York one fact alone stands out in bold relief, namely, there are more democrats than republicans in the state, and whenever party lines are drawn tightly and the democrats are hopeful and harmonious, the state goes democratic. In the recent election the democrats were reasonably well united, and they won. Governor Hill's majority would have been considerably larger, however, if there had been no trading in the two chief cities of the state.

FIRST ASSISTANT POSTMASTER-GENERAL STEVENSON dismissed a postmaster this week, not because of inefficiency, but on account of a deficiency of business, but because the government cannot afford to maintain a postoffice for the benefit of a single family. It was a postoffice in Utah, and the entire community consisted of the postmaster, his four wives and seventeen daughters. Nobody else patronized the office, and Mr. Stevenson concluded to give the postmaster an opportunity to devote his entire attention to his own domestic affairs.

GEORGIA AND THE FORESTRY COMMISSION.

The appointment of delegates by Governor McDaniel to the southern forestry congress, shortly to be held at DeFunis Springs, Florida, gives to Georgia a decided interest in the meeting. As a matter of fact, the proposed congress is of more importance to Georgia than to any other state in the south.

When the legislature was in session a few weeks ago, THE CONSTITUTION called the attention of its members to the necessity of an investigation of the subject of forged land titles in this state, the investigation to be followed by necessary legislation. The investigation need not have covered many days, for there are men in all parts of the state who know of the existence of forged land titles and the great damage that has been done through them to the rights and property of land owners. For the matter of that, the investigation need not have extended beyond the comptroller-general's office, for we are not mistaken, that office has on file in his department sufficient evidence to show the nature and extent of the frauds that have been perpetrated by means of forged titles.

For several years there have been men in various parts of the state whose business it is to deal in these forged titles and this fact has been taken advantage of to a very alarming extent by individuals and corporations who desire to occupy the land only temporarily for the purpose of stripping it of timber, or for the purpose of making turpentine. Millions of acres of the finest timber lands in Georgia have been despoiled by those who have no claim to them. The interests of those who purchase these forged titles for nominal sums are important enough to give them an excuse for contesting the rights of the real owners, but by the time the courts have settled the matter the holders of the bogus titles have accomplished their work of destruction, and are ready to move to other fields.

This is a matter that a forestry congress cannot reach, but the people of this state ought to take some steps looking to the preservation of their valuable pine forests—the most valuable, all things considered, in the world. By the time the legislature can be induced to act, much of the finest timber in the state will have been destroyed. While there is no remedy outside of legislative action for forged titles that will prevent this destruction, nevertheless, it is to be hoped that a sound public sentiment can be created whereby the timber interests of the state may be prompted, and its valuable forests preserved.

THE STERLING CASE.

A republican, who carried four or five bullets that he received in the course of the civil war, was weighed on the Brooklyn docks, having charge of about one hundred laborers. The surveyor of the port dismissed him on the ground that a man of more force and courage, and physical strength was needed in handling so many laborers. Mr. Sterling was appointed weigher by Collector Heden. Sterling is an active local politician of Brooklyn—a democrat, and the owner of a liquor saloon, a good deal of a sporting man, and yet a man who has had some experience in, and doubtless good capacity for the place to which he had been appointed.

As soon as the change had been made a great outcry and protest was heard from the civil service reformers, and the independent press. The appointment of Sterling was denounced as an outrage; and in the end the master was brought to the attention of the president, and he promptly decided that the weighership came within the civil service rules, and an open competitive examination should be held to determine who was eligible for appointment to the coveted place.

But this did not displease Sterling. The examination was held, and Sterling, the alleged illiterate, appeared before the board of examiners as an applicant. He stood the test. His handwriting was good, and he passed with a mark of sixty-nine, or four points within the line that divides the eligible from the ineligible. About thirty other persons were found to be eligible; and the question immediately arose, shall the whole list of eligibles be certified to Collector Heden, leaving him free to select Sterling or any other man of the thirty, or shall the four with highest marks be sent, as had been the custom, and as the existing rules of the civil service commission required? The commission considered the question with much deliberation, and finally decided to send the whole list to the collector of the port.

It is easy to imagine the astonishment created by the reappearance of the belated confederate. The intelligence of his return spread like wildfire, and hundreds of farmers who were total strangers to him rode many miles to interview him. The Sandwich Islands will be the den of the hour and a nine-days wonder. Unfortunately, for the collector Heden, leaving him free to select Sterling or any other man of the thirty, or shall the four with highest marks be sent, as had been the custom, and as the existing rules of the civil service commission required? The commission considered the question with much deliberation, and finally decided to send the whole list to the collector of the port.

CONSTITUTIONAL.
General Gossip and Editorial Sketches
Caught on the Run.

Some people in Atlanta forgot that there was to be another election after the decision of the prohibition issue next Wednesday week. One or two candidates for the mayor though, Mayor Hillier has been nominated yet to serve. Nobody is known whom the honor may possibly fall are Meade M. S. M. Inman, Alderman Tyler Cooper, Julius Brown, Alderman Hutchinson, and Mr. Kimball.

The Irish Land League in Atlanta, which numbers about one hundred members, made its debut two years ago by Mr. J. J. Fahey, one of the leading young Irishmen of the city for a long time. Mr. Fahey went to a meeting to find himself the only one there. He punctually went through the exercises as well as he could, and never lost his faith that the world would finally prosper in Ireland. It is one of the most active branches of the League all over America to hold up the cause of the poor.

A Virginian said yesterday: "Now that we have gained control of our legislature, there is to be a pretty fight for the United States. The foremost candidates are Congressman John P. Barbour and Congressman John W. Daniel. Barbour has been organizer of the democratic party and was more than a match for Daniel. Daniel represents the younger democracy, as backed by an enthusiasm which any win for him will bring. His ticket is the best, and the most thorough search has failed to discover any trace of them."

Business in Chattanooga.
CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., November 13.—[Special.]—It is reported on good authority that the Dayton Comptroller has now decided to erect an electric plant at Dayton, and the members of the company have sailed to this country to make arrangements for its erection.

The furnaces will blow on Monday.

There has been a very satisfactory and encouraging revival in the iron business in the Chattanooga district. All the furnaces have disposed of all their stock, and the demand continues good. There has been a slight advance, and all the furnace men decline to take long orders ahead, anticipating further advances.

The Dog Race.

HIGH POINT, N. C., November 13.—The dogs got an early start today. The morning was clear, but the afternoon is cloudy with rain and strong winds. The races were exciting. In the second series member stakes, Bucklow beat the Belle of Piedmont. Foreman beat Brimstone, Brook ran a tie. In the third series Bucklow beat Brock East. man ran a bye, Foreman then beat Bucklow.

A Beautiful Coach.

BRUNSWICK, Ga., November 13.—[Special.]—Vice President A. Goddie, of the Brunswick and Western railroad, invited the mayor and aldermen and a number of citizens to inspect a new omnibus passenger coach which had just arrived from the Pullman factory. A short trip of about ten miles was made and very much enjoyed by the party.

Moses Charles and J. N. Brown are here, and will make Brunswick their home.

What has become by the way of the mulatto, however, is the result of the available, but strikingly different figure from "Peculiar" he appeared on the stage. He was a short, stoop-shouldered man with unshining awkward gait. It was hard to see what was about him to attract most people's regard and their affections when he went. When his sad breakdown occurred, however, he may have lost an illustrious father, but a noble hearted gentleman passed for a great circle of sympathetic friends, and a noble soul was tossed by a fierce fever which now fully is past forever.

The VALUE OF ADVERTISING.

What a Test Center Did in Last Sunday's Constitution.

Last Saturday evening the following advertisement was handed in the Constitution's business office for publication in Sunday's ten cent column of Wants, etc.

A GERMAN WOMAN THREW FIVE YEARS WORK south of Mason and Dixon's line, a woman who has more genuine ability than a dog, who has been rolled into one, has been stoned and ostracized in New Orleans, and has removed to Northampton, Mass., and is now in Boston. If she goes back to New Orleans, she will follow them if they turned from painting moonshines and negroes to telling the truth about them.
